Jacob Hilsinger,

I have a student who is persuing a project on fitness that we have titled a "deep learning fitness project" based on a conversation we had last week. His name is Jake Hawkins, and I encouraged him to make contact with you as I thought you would understand the nature of the project management class and could provide some great advice for him from many different perspectives on this project.

This email is meant to introduce the two of you and share some contact information. Please reply if the two of you would be willing to meet up.

Brother Godfrey,

I am considering doing a "deep learning fitness project" In addition to the family history thing. It sounds like a great idea to me.

Could you put me into contact with that ex-Marine awesome guy? Thanks!

Jake
