

TIC TAC TOE GAME PROJECT

Agile Methodology – This methodology is my favorite because in my mind I feel that you get really good as you get to do the same thing over and over again because you learn how to save time and resources as you go through the same phases as you work on delivering the required deliverables. This is something I also learned as I read Project Management: Best practices for IT Professionals. Working on building the tic tac toe game helped me understand why Tech companies are trying their best to make everything simple and use the least resources. Working on this project as I tried different ways to work with the tic tac toe players proved to me that the agile methodology in the software industry is the best approach for developing software.
